

THE ADVOCATE.

HINTS TO HOUSEKEEPERS.

Coffee boiled longer than one minute is coffee spoiled.

To polish jewelry use a paste of powdered chalk and spirits of wine.

Warm dishes put the table by immersing them in hot water, not by standing them on a hot stove.

Mix stove blacking with spirits of turpentine. It will take off the rust, polish easier, and stay glossy longer than when water is used.

When you are hurried and a postage stamp will not stick, moisten it and rub it on the flap of an envelope, and then quickly put it in its place.

A small teaspoonful of powdered borax added to a bowl of cold starch will give more stiffness to linen than any of the numerous things you have tried.

To polish brass kettles that are very much tarnished, first rub with a solution of oxalic acid, then dry and polish with rotten stone or the finest emery.

To clean marble ball four ounces of soft soap with four of powdered whiting and one of soda. Apply hot, and let remain on the marble for a day or two.

Add a tablespoonful of borax to a pan of hot soap-suds; put your table silver in it and let it stand two hours; rinse it with clear water and polish with a soft cloth or chamois.

There is a false economy which costs more than it returns, such as saving old medicine bottles, partially-used prescriptions, the tack taken from the carpet, or working days to save or make that which can be bought for a few cents.

A new method of cleaning clothes is suggested. Dip the clothes brush in the yolk of an egg, so that the bristles are quite wet. Allow it to dry and then use. This treatment has, it is said, the effect to make the brushing especially effective.

To keep things in a state of dazzling brilliancy wash them inside and out with hot water and soda. Dry them and rub the outside with a paste made of whiting and water. When this has dried, rub it off with a soft cloth and polish with leather and dry whiting.

To clean silver, first wash to remove all the grease from the silver, then rub with a woolen cloth wet with ammonia and whiting, and polish on the chased and flange parts with a tooth brush. This whiting is wet with ammonia and made into cakes or boxes, and agents are around selling it for fifty cents a box, that the probability is, cost them ten cents. It is wise to clean glass windows and kinds of glassware.

Common cooking soda is the "bicarbonate of soda" of the druggist and chemist. The soda and the carbonate acid easily set at liberty from it are antiseptic, disinfectant and astringent, and on these accounts useful. Though we are unable to fully explain why this substance should be so remarkably effective in relieving pain and promoting the recovery from burns the fact remains. Directions: (1) If the burning or scalding is not severe apply a dry soda covering over all the injured parts and keep it on. The layer may be as thick as heavy pasteboard or thicker. If a blister does not form the relief from pain will be almost if not quite complete, and after a short time no further inconvenience will felt on removing the application. (2) For deeper burns whether blistered or not, if the skin is not broken, lay on linen or cotton rags, or pieces of cloth—soft linen is much preferable—dipped in a soda solution made by stirring a tablespoonful of soda in a pint of water. Keep the cloth moistened with it. (3) For severe, deep burns, where the skin comes off, and the formation of matter (pus) follows, apply the cloth and solution in the same way, and keeping them constantly moist with the solution. But as often as any matter accumulates underneath, remove the cloth very carefully, so as not to disturb any new-forming flesh, and carefully wash off the matter with the soda liquid, so that it may not be absorbed into the blood, then immediately apply fresh, clean cloth, previously dipped in the soda solution, and continue the moistening with it.

Submarine masonry is now made impervious to water by coating it with coal tar, a process that is quite efficacious, even at a depth of fifty feet.

Kossuth's Unquenchable Hatred of Austria.

The man who once boasted that he held the fortune of the house of Hapsburg in the hollow of his hand is no more. Louis Kossuth, the Hungarian patriot, after lingering long upon the stage from which all of his compatriots had departed, is at last at rest. His life has been one of turmoil, hard work and severe privation and disappointed ambition. Unpassed in his devotion to his native land, he was the most impractical of her patriots sons. Francis Deak was as much his superior in statesmanlike qualities as Kossuth was his in those talents which challenge the admiration of men of letters. When the Empire of Austria agreed to grant Hungary self-government Deak was quick to close the bargain. Kossuth, on the other hand, disaffected and grumbling, lost much sympathy by uselessly opposing the concession.

Kossuth dreamed of an absolutely independent Hungary, nay of a subjugated Austria. He hated the Hapsburgs with an undying and unquenchable hatred and to the last refused to be reconciled. Twice in his life he thought the prize of which he dreamed even in his childhood days was within his grasp. The first time was when a wave of revolution was sweeping over Europe. In 1848 came the French revolution, which was followed by the downfall of Metetrich on March 13 of that year, Kossuth, who was then visiting Vienna for the purpose of delivering an address of the Diet, was received with great popular acclamation. In conjunction with Bathany he was invited to form an independent Hungarian Ministry, and to himself was given the Department of Finance. The new National assembly met at Pesth in July, but the Vienna Cabinet was already intriguing against the reforms to which it had reluctantly consented.

The consequence was that Croatia and Slavonia proclaimed themselves independent if Hungary and Jellachich crossed the Drave in support of the separation. Kossuth then began the re-organization of the national finances and militia, and in July the Diet met and voted to declare its independence of defense which the Emperor refused to sanction. Soon the Vienna government, abandoning concealment of its purposes, dispatched Count Lamberg to disperse the Diet by force, and thereupon a committee of defense was formed under the presidency of Kossuth and the revolution began.

On September 29 Jellachich was defeated at Pakoza, near Buda, and retreated to Vienna. The city rose in revolt on October 6. Now was Kossuth's opportunity, the chance he had longed for. On October 24 he joined the Hungarian army near Pavendorf. He heard the roar of the Vienna cannon and his heart beat higher. The Hungarian forces crossed the Austrian frontier on the following day, and on October 28 pitched their tents within a few miles of Vienna. But the revolution was then over and Hungary was left to fight the battle alone, under the military command of a committee of defense, of which Kossuth was the leading military spirit. On April 14 the Hungarian declaration of independence was proclaimed by the Diet, and the same day Kossuth was proclaimed president or governor. He was still less of a soldier than of a statesman. He realized the fact that he was not born to command armies, and therefore he quickly resigned his office in favor of the soldier Georgey. Two days later Georgey surrendered to the Russians and all was over with Kossuth, who sought refuge in Turkey.

The second time when he thought victory was his was in 1859, when Napoleon and Victor Emmanuel were making preparations for a war against Austria. He was bitterly disappointed at the failure of his plan, which was brought about by the peace of Villafranca. The arrangement with Austria, which under the lead of Deak, was carried through in 1866, he strongly opposed. He might on several occasions have been elected to the Diet of Pesth, but he chose to remain in voluntary exile—nothing but the complete independence of his country. He hated the Austrians. This hatred was ingrained. It was in his blood. He inherited it from his ancestors. His father, Andreas Kossuth, a lawyer, who possessed some acres of land, was poor, but of noble lineage, descended from an ancient Croat family. Seventeen members of this family from 1527 to 1715, were prosecuted for high treason by the Austrian government, and what wonder, therefore, that Louis Kossuth should have no love for the Austrians. He, too, suffered imprisonment at the hands of the Emperor. He was born on April 27, 1802, at Monok, in the county of Zemplin, Hungary. His mother, Caroline Weher, was one of the most intelligent Protestant instructors. He studied at the Calvinist College of Szeged, and, adopting the profession of an advocate, practiced law for eight years in Zeps and in Pesth, where the royal courts held their sessions, filling at one time the office of Honorary of Government Attorney for the county of Zemplin.

In the later years of his life, though still beloved by his countrymen, he was not their early idol. The chivalrous, dashing, daring Magy was considered a leader like the fiery Prince Ruyter, the white-plumed knight of Navarre, the gallant Sarsfield, Earl of Lucan, or the magnetic Napoleon, and they hated to see their hero shut himself up in a foreign land and occupying himself only with vain regrets. But still they loved him and beyond question. They could not forget his early sacrifices and his great services. Turin, where he lived and died, has been for many a year the Mecca of the grateful Hungarians. The long weary journey of 700 miles was nothing to those devoted admirers of his, who went on one occasion one thousand strong to pay him their homage. Even the women braved the discomforts of such a journey to pay a tribute of respect to one of the most distinguished of their race.—N. Y. Herald.

According to the State Board of Health of Michigan, the statistics of sickness have demonstrated the fact that generally influenza (a gripe) is quantitatively related to the atmospheric ozone—the more ozone, the more influenza; and the law that remittent fever is inversely related—the more ozone, the less remittent fever.

Over 90,000 seals were captured and over 50,000 were destroyed by poachers on Behring Sea last season.

The Grief of William.

"Here is a boy named William named after William the Conqueror. He is half-past thirteen years old, and has had freckles on his face ever since his first birthday. It is Saturday afternoon, and he is on his way to the graveyard."

"What has he in his hand?"
"A bouquet of flowers for his sister's grave."
"Did he lose a sister?"
"He did. She was a sweet little thing aged 8 years."
"And he loved her?"
"Of and on, same as all boys do. He isn't going to visit her because he loved her."
"Then why?"
"Because he caused her death by pushing her off the steps, and he is going up there to cry and leave the bouquet to ease his conscience."
"Isn't that deceptive?"
"Yes, but we all do it. Lots of husbands have broken their wives' hearts and sent them to their graves and then made everything O.K. by putting up a $500 stone with a spread-eagle angel on top."—Detroit Free Press.

35 Complete Novels

Neatly bound, and a year's subscription to a large 16-page illustrated monthly magazine for only 30 cents. This is a most liberal offer as Household Topics, the offer referred to, is a high-class paper, replete with stories of love, adventure, travel, and short interesting and instructive sketches of fact and fancy; and in the list of 35 novels are such treasures as "A Brave Coward," by Robert Louis Stevenson; "A Blacksmith's Daughter," by Eliza W. Pierce; "Ninetta," a most pleasing story by M. T. Cador; "A Gilded Sin" and "Between Two Sins," by the author of "Dora Thorne"; "The Truth of It," by the popular writer, Hugh Conway; and the "Morre-house Tragedy," rather sensational, by Mrs. Jane C. Austin; "A Heroine," a delightful story by Mrs. Rebecca H. Davis; "Wall Flowers," by the popular Marjorie Harland, and the great story "Guilt or Not Guilty," by Amanda M. Doughlass. Space forbids mentioning the other novels; but they are all the same high grade, popular, bright, romantic, spicy, interesting stories.

The 35 novels and the current issue of Household Topics will be sent you the day your order is received. They will supply you with a season's reading for a mere song; and will be appreciated by all in the household. Send 30 cents to Household Topics Publishing Co., P. O. box 1169, New York City, N. Y.

A Lost People.

A lady whose home is in the south of France writes of a visit she made recently to an island on the coast of Brittany. "Those of you who have read the story of King Arthur and his knights will remember that they started out over the sea in pursuit of the dragon. In this—the Morbihan Sea—is a little island which can be reached from the mainland only when the water is smooth. The sole inhabitant is a Breton shepherd, who lives in a little hut and spends his time in caring for his sheep. The party landed and were met by the kind-faced old man, who led them over the grassy slope where his flock was feeding and showed them the way around a hill on the east side of which they found an entrance to a tunnel.

This extended some distance, and its floor, sides and roof were made of immense flat pieces of stone covered with hieroglyphics and figures, "looking somewhat like wreaths, and again like coiled serpents." At the end of this tunnel was a hall, also floored, roofed and walled with the same curious stones, and in the center were an altar and a stone upon which it is thought human sacrifices have been offered. The strangest part of all is that no stones or rocks like those used in this tunnel can be found on the island, and at no place nearer than 100 miles inland. Who brought them? How did they come? There is no record left—at least none has been found—to tell who these people were, or anything about them.

They must have lived many centuries ago, but have vanished entirely, yet their work is as perfect apparently as when first built.

It is thought that they may have been Druids, who came here when they left Great Britain; others, again, think that they were worshippers of the serpent god, called Hoo. But it is a conjecture. All we know is that the stones are here, strangely carved, skilfully put together, but of their builders, there is no trace.—Ex.

The most valuable paper that comes to this office is the New York World. Fearless and independent, working at all times for the best interests of the people, and never for the selfish ends of any ring or individual, supporting the right and condemning the wrong wherever found, it becomes a great power for good throughout the land. Its policy is defined by its well-known motto: "Equal rights to all, Special Favors to None." The reputation of the Weekly World as an "incomparable newspaper" is fully established. It reaches for the very best and fullest news of the entire country, and gets it. The celebrated "Tariff Mule" articles are again running in their weekly and are creating widespread attention. Its miscellaneous pages are replete with articles of valuable and interesting information to everyone. It is a large 12-page, 8-column paper for only $1.00 a year. We have succeeded in making special arrangements by which we can furnish The Advocate and the Weekly World one year both for only $1.50. Address

Castoria.

"Castoria is an excellent medicine for children. Mothers have repeatedly told me of its good effect upon their children."
Dr. G. G. Osmond, Lowell, Mass.

Castoria.

"Castoria is the best remedy for children of which I am acquainted. I hope the day is not far distant when mothers will consider the real interest of their children, and use Castoria instead of the various quack nostrums which are destroying their loved ones, by forcing opium, morphine, soothing syrup, and other harmful agents down their throats, thereby sending them to premature graves."
Dr. J. F. Kitchener, Gwynn, Ark.

Castoria.

"Castoria is so well adapted to children that I recommend it as superior to any preparation known to me."
H. A. Archer, M. D., 111 So. Oxford St., Brooklyn, N. Y.

Castoria.

"Our physicians in the children's department have spoken highly of their experience in their outside practice with Castoria, and among us only have among our medical supplies what is known as regular products, yet we are free to confess that the merits of Castoria has won us to look with favor upon it."

ANNOUNCEMENTS.

For Congress.

We are authorized to announce Hon. J. Marcus C. Little of Clark county as a candidate for Congress, in this the Tenth District, to succeed himself, subject to the action of the Democratic party.

We are authorized to announce Hon. Jo M. Kendall, of Floyd county as a candidate for Congress from the Tenth District, subject to the action of the Democratic party.

We are authorized to announce Matt C. Clay as a candidate for Constable of the Mt. Sterling Magisterial District, subject to the action of the Democratic party.

The industrial feature of the past week, according to Bradstreet's, is found in thirty-one strikes throughout the country, involving 4900 employees.

Representative Springer, of Illinois proposes a new rule to secure a quorum in the National House and prevent filibustering. It provides that the names of those present and not voting shall be entered on the Journal as voting in the negative, and if there, with no voting, are a majority of all the members, a quorum shall be deemed as constituted.

Increase in business is reported by the Dun and Bradstreet's commercial agencies for the past week at several centers, but at numerous points unfavorable weather checked the demand for dry goods and kindred lines. A good sign is the fact that in March there were but 1,005 failures, while in January there were 2,000, and in February 1,202.

In the Fayette Circuit Court, two indictments have been returned against C. C. Moore, editor of the Blade, one for blasphemy and the other for sedition. The witness in each indictment is Rev. E. L. Southgate, of Lexington, formerly pastor of the M. E. church of this city. It is likely Mr. Moore will refuse to give the bond required, preferring to go to jail.

Judge Jenkins has declined to recede from the position taken in his recent ruling, denying the right of the employees of the Northern Pacific railroad to combine and conspire to quit work, with or without notice, for the purpose of crippling the operation of the road. In deciding Friday the motion of the representatives of the organized labor for a modification of his previous order, Judge Jenkins declined to modify except by striking out a clause which might obscure his meaning.

The plan of the Republican fight against the Tariff Bill in the Senate was manifested Friday when active filibustering for the purpose of delay was commenced. On a motion to adjourn until Monday Senators Hill, Murphy and Irby voted in the affirmative with the republicans and Belmont was paired in favor of the motion. The motion was defeated. Minority tactics were then commenced, and the proceedings were suggestive of the extra-continued filibuster during the extra session last fall.

As a scheme for unloading the unemployed of the West upon the States farther east, the "Industrial Army" movement is proving a success. Another army, 1,000 strong, is moving eastward over the Southern Pacific from California, packed in box cars. At Oakland the army at first refused to embark in box cars, demanding that the bloated corporation furnish passenger coaches, but the police and citizens drove the crowd out of town. The Fry detachment was also driven out of the East St. Louis Friday, after the refusal of the men to go to work.

Organized labor has found many difficulties placed in its way by the decisions of Federal Courts, but it has at last found a friend in Judge Caldwell, of the United States Circuit Court at Omaha. Judge Caldwell's decision on the Union Pacific wage scale contest is a complete victory for the employees of the road. He holds that "organized labor is not organized capital; it is capital controlled by brains and muscles," and that it is not a part of the business of the Union Pacific to control the wage schedule. Judge Caldwell's opinion is in direct opposition to the recently given by Judge Jenkins in the Northern Pacific wage case.

WASHINGTON LETTER.

WASHINGTON, D. C.

DEAR ADVOCATE:

As it has been some time since Thin Space wrote; you this week he will endeavor to say something. Your correspondent has felt a little worried about the way things have been going on in Congress for some time, therefore has refrained from saying much for fear of saying too much. But I am now convinced that this Congress will be one ever blessed in the minds and hearts of our countrymen, both rich and poor, and especially the poor working man, who toils daily for his bread. When the Wilson Bill is finally disposed of, and it is truly hoped that time is near, the wage-earners of this country will be so benefited that the Democratic party will for ever be praised for its passage.

The tariff bill is now under consideration in the Senate, and even with a few changes that have been made, it is still a Democratic measure and will, according to my prophesy, remain on the Statue Book, until removed by the Democrats for a better one. Take the bill in its entirety, with all its defects, and it is a long step toward tariff reform, and as matter of course will be followed by a better measure. The Republicans say the Wilson tariff is a protective tariff, so why do they kick and want to defeat it? I will leave this for some of our Republican friends to think over.

Then to this Congress belongs the thanks of American people, in the repeal of the Force Bill, a bill calculated to defeat the objects of our Government, a Government of free people.

The President vetoed the Blind Bill, because he could not understand it, and for other reasons.

There is now another bill before Congress for the free coinage of silver, and for other purposes. Since Senator Hill has turned protectionist, how would it do to run him on a free trade platform? But now, he will have to change his motto, I am a Democrat, to that of "I am a Protectionist," but the loss of such Democrats to tariff reform will not hurt the cause. The good work of decreasing the burdens of the working man should be continued, and will be continued.

A Public Printer has at last been appointed, and the man to get the place is Mr. Benedict, Mr. Cleveland's former printer. Mr. Benedict made a good official before and it is naturally presumed that he will make a good one this time. The printers, I mean the Democratic printers, will now have a chance to get a piece of pie, and the Republicans a loaf. It is thought that Mr. Benedict will make a good many changes in the office, and if he does there will be room for several more Democrats. In looking around and observing the different members of the House and noting the presence and absence of members I find, and with pleasure, that Kentucky is not represented by that class of politicians that resort to filibustering and absent themselves from the floor when they are opposed to a certain measure, but stay and answer to their names at roll-call. Of course Kentucky is only State represented by such men, but as Kentucky is my State it is nothing but natural that one should note the facts pertaining to his State. I see the grand old commonwealth is not represented by "hoodle politicians, but by brave men. Men who are honest and fearless, and who stand for what is right.

In speaking of the Kentucky members from observation, and of the House as a whole, I am impelled to say that Hon. M. C. Little, of all the new members, he is classed as among the best versed men in the House. He is a member of, now, one of the most important House Committees, and also a member of one other committee. The Tenth Kentucky District should well feel proud of her representative, and next November should send him back to Congress with an overwhelming majority. I will say in conclusion that in 1896, I would like to see Mr. Vice-President Stevenson, President, and Mr. Secretary Carlisle, presiding over the Senate—Stevenson and Carlisle—how does that sound anyway? It will be a winning ticket, in the opinion of

A THIN SPACE.

The testimony in the Breckinridge-Pollard case was concluded Friday. Nothing of importance developed in the later testimony, both the plaintiff and the defendant reappearing briefly for a little more dramatic assertion and emphatic denial. The trial has been in progress over four weeks. Argument to the jury began yesterday. There will be two speeches on each side, and the case will probably go to the jury by Wednesday night. The report that Col. Breckinridge would address the jury is denied.

Senator Jeffers attempted to explain Friday why he opposes the Tariff Bill. He favors protection, but thinks the bill discriminates against the farmers.

Suicide.

HOW IT IS DONE.

Why It Caught Them—For Every Dollar Spent You Get Two Dollars Worth.

The Eastern market is in just such a condition that money talks big. I had been advised of this fact and went to New York with the money to buy goods, and have just returned with the largest, best and cheapest line of goods I have ever had the pleasure to offer to the people. New clothing direct from the factory, also "Pawn Brokers' Goods," they are of the very latest styles and best makes, and we are selling them at 50 cents on the dollar. Shoes such low prices never before heard of, stacks of them. Hats, beautiful, think of it, worth three times what we ask for them. Furnishing goods—A large importation, at prices that make them go. Come and get some of our bargains.

J. BOWMAN, New York Pawn Brokers' Store.

The remains of Mr. James Harvey Jones were brought from his late home, near Platte City, Mo., to Mt. Sterling, on Sunday morning, and given sepulchre in the county of his birth and home of his youth and earlier manhood. Many friends came to tender to the wife and son their heartfelt sympathy in their loss and home coming, and to unite with them in the last sorrowful rites in giving back to mother earth the form of their loved one. James Harvey Jones was brave, generous, open hearted and open handed to a fault. His comrades, among the surviving ex-Confederates, remember how he bore himself in camp and in battle. It was by the hands of these same comrades that his body was borne to its last resting place, just as he would have wished, could he have dictated in the matter. Though nearly 30 years have passed since the hosts that followed the Southern Cross saw that flag go down in defeat, many a tear coursed down the bronzed and wrinkled cheeks of those who had stood shoulder to shoulder with him in the times and places that tried men's souls, as they saw all that was mortal of James Harvey Jones committed to the grave.

Mr. Jones was 57 years of age at the time of his death. He married Miss Fannie Ragan, daughter of the late Wm. Ragan, of this county, and to them was born a daughter, who died in infancy and a son who is grown to manhood, and who married a daughter of Marion Oldham, formerly of this county, now living in Missouri.

The trouble that led to Mr. Jones' death originated over a note that had been endorsed by Mr. Jones for a son of Marion Oldham and a partner of his (Oldham's) and about which Mr. Jones thought he had reason to believe there was some crookedness. On the day of his death, Mr. Jones had been to the county seat to procure an indictment against the parties.

On Thursday afternoon (April 5) he had come home with his wife from the county seat, and walked out on his place where his hands were at work. Seeing the Oldhams—father and son—in the next field he walked over to them. What followed, no one knows, but the two Oldhams, since the talk was not loud enough to be heard by negroes working in a field on one side or by Zolite Jones who was working in a field on the other side. Although the parties were in sight, no one seems to have seen the immediate beginning of the shooting. Young Oldham was shot in the arm by Mr. Jones. Mr. Jones himself was shot four times, by the older Oldham, dying in a few minutes. It is a fact worthy of mention that up to the hour of the difficulty there had not been an angry word between Jones and the Oldhams. Mr. Jones seemingly blamed young Oldham's partner for the trouble over the note. It is one of those deplorable family tragedies that come up now and then, and cannot be satisfactorily accounted for. Mr. Jones was a brother of Mr. Henry L. Jones of this county, and was connected with some of the best families in the county. Mr. Oldham is also a native of this county, and is related to many of our very best people.

ACCIDENT. TORNADO.

Mr. Winchester Hess, aged 84, former proprietor of the Hess House, in Winchester, died in that city Wednesday night.

The three train robbers, who murdered Conductor McNally at Oliphant, Ark., November 21st, were hanged at Newport, Ark., Friday morning.

Tonight and to-morrow night Dr. Howling will lecture at Grassy Neck, and those who do not hear him will miss a treat.

John F. Combs, of Rothwell, and J. N. Combs, of Bowen, Ky., have returned from New York, where they make large purchases for their stores.

C. C. Shurtelt, formerly of this county, writes us that he is highly pleased with his new home at Altona, Mo. The freeze there has done great damage to the wheat, oats and fruit crops.

Ben King, the Michigan Poet, who was here on the evening of March 31st, with Ope Reed died in his bed room at Owensboro last Friday night. Heart trouble is supposed to have been the cause.

Twelve years ago Huntington, W. Va., was a town of 3,000. Her numerous factories now give employment to over 4,000 mechanics and the population of the city has increased to nearly 30,000. The factories built up the town.

The confidence that people have in Ayer's Sarsaparilla as a blood medicine is the legitimate and natural growth of many years. It has been handed down from parent to child, and is the favorite family medicine in thousands of households.

Monday, at Owingsville, while in a fight, W. DeAdley cut Mark Cline twice in the side and once in the heart, killing him instantly. Both were drinking and the killing was the outcome of an old trouble.

W. T. Stokely, of Plum Bluff, has rented the William Biont farm in Nicholas county, of 100 acres, and his Postoffice is Myers, Nicholas county. Mr. Stokely was in the city on business Monday. Mr. Stokely will return to this county in the fall.

The Chiles, Thompson Grocery Company are adding an improvement to their building, by extending it 25 feet. They need both office room and more store room, in order to store the increased stock which their growing business demands.

Mr. and Mrs. Richard Stofor have concluded, after more than a year's stay in town, to return again to the country. Mr. Stofor has rented out his farm for the present year, but is so tired in the use of "fishing" and he is so restless in not having his accustomed employment to occupy his attention, that he will go to his son, Albert Stofor's, and spend his time in the conduct of his farming operations. Mr. and Mrs. Stofor will go to Albert's to-morrow where they will make their home for the balance of the year.

The young orators, Swango and Hardin, delivered their prize orations, to a select audience at the Court House last night, surpassing the expectations of their friends. From 10:30 to 12 o'clock they were elegantly entertained at the home of Mr. N. H. Trimble, which was artistically decorated with tropical painted flowers and plants. It was a pleasant time for the many who were present.

The Growth of Cities.
All American cities grow towards their suburbs, while their early centers of population are devoted almost exclusively to business purposes. The old part of New York City has not so many people as it had forty years ago. The substitution of electricity for horsepower in propelling street cars enormously increased this suburban tendency, and is destined to do so to a greater extent than now. It will be many years before villages 10 to 15 miles distant from all large cities will be connected with them by electric cars. This is being done in New England to a greater extent than elsewhere. It is one of the advantages of the great water power that secures that it will have cheap transportation by electric power in places where those advantages are enjoyed.

PERSONAL MENTION.

T. P. Martin was in Owingsville yesterday on business.

W. R. Nunnally, wife and son, Brew, are spending this week in Louisville. Judge L. G. Willis, of Sage, Powell was in the city Monday on business.

W. P. Oulham left Thursday for Midway to spend a few days with his sister.

Mr. Ollie Snyder, a lawyer of Toledo, Ohio, is visiting his sister, Mrs. A. J. Arrick.

Mrs. Bettie Thompson visited her sister, Mrs. Jennie Cloud, in Lexington, last week.

Miss Wynona Moore, Bath county, is the guest of Miss Stella Ogg on Harrison avenue.

R. A. Thomson, student of Georgetown College was at home from Saturday until Monday.

John Miller, Dame who has been in Chicago for some weeks back came home Saturday night.

Mrs. J. M. Isola, Mt. Sterling, visited Mrs. S. Dinello Wednesday. Winchester Democrat.

Mr. Allie Young, one out most prominent attorneys was in Greenville on legal business last week.

Miss Anna Lisle, of this city, will leave-to-day for Clay City to attend the Maple and Earnest wedding.

Miss Mattie Bridgeforth returned Thursday from a pleasant visit to her friends at St. Albans, W. Va., where Warren Stoner, in Bourbon county.

Miss Llewellyn Cloud, of Lexington spent Thursday evening and night with her cousin, Miss Margaret Thompson, on Holt Avenue.

Miss Rose Hudson and Miss Lizzie Donnelly two charming young ladies of St. Albans, W. Va., are expected here today, they will visit Mrs. Ed. Hudson and Mrs. G. L. Kirkpatrick.

Spencer Cooper, of the Hazel Green Herald, was in the city a couple of days the past week looking after the chances for extending the Ky. & S. A. R. R. through his town and section.

Miss Mattie Bridgeforth returned to Mt. Sterling yesterday after a pleasant visit to Mrs. Warren Stoner. Miss Bridgeforth is a lovely and popular young lady and made many friends during her stay in Paris-Bourbon News.

Mrs. Judge B. J. Peters, we are very sorry to say, is no more improved. She has now been confined to her bed for several weeks and her condition is such as to cause grave concerns among her friends and kindred.

George Roberts, of Sideview, attended the Power lecture here Thursday evening. Miss Lilly Orear, of Grassy Lick, visited Mrs. C. M. Gilkey last week. Miss Juliet French, of Mt. Sterling, visited Mrs. Moffie Tabbott last week. N. M. Town Advance.

THE IMMIGRATION EVIL.

The immigration of the past few years has added largely to the numbers of unemployed. A million represents the number of foreigners-Irishmen, Germans, Scandinavians, Poles, Russians, Italians and Hungarians-who immigrated to this country in 1893 and 1893. If they had not come, a million fewer people would have been out of work at the present time-in other words, there would have been no mass of starving people to be supported by charity in the large cities. The people whom the generous are now called upon to feed, or to set at work on improvements which are not immediately necessary, are just the foreigners who thrust themselves into the country in the brief space of two years.

And the worst of the situation is that the flood of workers pouring into a glutted market continues to flow. Steamships are arriving daily at New York loaded with raw labor, though 67,000 workers are now reported by the police census to be idle in that city. We are at our wits' end to provide bread for the paupers we have, and yet we are swelling the number of hungry mouths instead of increasing the supply of bread. How long is such absurdity to endure? Congress, by a brief enactment, has in its power largely to check the prevailing business depression by simply closing the national door to foreign immigration. The mere suggestion of such a measure would impart tone to the labor market.-Chicago Ledger.

WHAT DO YOU take medicine for? Because you want to get well, or keep well, of course. Remember Hood's Sarsaparilla Cures

Mr. R. E. Thomas, Evansville, West Va.

A Narrow Escape

From Loss of a Limb

Dreadful Case of White Swelling-A Perfect Cure.

One of the most serious forms of sore and one of the most difficult to cure is that of white swelling. Hood's Sarsaparilla has accomplished many wonderful cures of white swelling, one of which is related below by Mr. R. E. Thomas, a manufacturer of harnesses, saddles, etc., at Evansville, W. Va. Read his letter!

"I. Hood & Co., Lowell, Mass. I was seized with a severe attack of white swelling. Five years later I had to have the flesh on my limb cut out, and the bone scraped. After the flesh healed up I was not troubled again until January, 1902. I was taken down with the grip which settled in the previously affected limb, sores gathering where there had been scars, due in particular, I supposed, to the bone. The whole front of my leg from knee to ankle seemed to be

A Mass of Corruption.
I could get but little ease and comfort and less benefit from the medical treatment I received. Some of my friends advised me to have the leg amputated, but I hesitated, not wanting to lose a limb. Fortunately I saw an advertisement in a paper embracing a testimonial for Hood's Sarsaparilla from one Mr. John Montgomery, telling me how he had cured his what Hood's Sarsaparilla had done for his son. I concluded to try Hood's Sarsaparilla and I bought six bottles of it about three months ago. I had not used it two months when I could see I was doing me more good than anything I had taken. I have now used about three bottles. The sores have all healed up and My Limb is Perfectly Sound.

Hood's Sarsaparilla Cures

It has also benefited my general health and I am now able to work at my trade. Hood's Sarsaparilla receives all the praise and I cannot recommend it enough for the good it has done me." R. E. Thomas, Evansville, W. Va.

Opposite Northern Bank, is under the management of Mr. G. W. Wells and wife, late of Battle Creek Sanitarium. The efficiency of Mr. Wells is shown by the following testimonial from Mr. Frank Armstrong (father-in-law of Mr. Robt. Swigert, of Lexington), Lexington, Ky., Feb. 5, 1894.

To whom it may concern:

Mr. George W. Wells has been giving me massage for the past five weeks and I consider him one of the best massagers I have had, and I speak from experience, as I have in the past had the same treatment under the best of massagers at Carlsbad, in Austria; at St. Moitz, in Switzerland; in Cincinnati, and in Philadelphia. Mr. Wells thoroughly understands massage, and is fully competent to give the treatment, and is thorough and conscientious in what he does.

LAND, STOCK AND CROP.

The stock barn of Mr. H. A. Rogers was destroyed by fire Monday morning. Loss about $2,000, covered by insurance. W. M. Jones sold last week 47 hogs, weighing 126 lbs., for $4.50. K. P. Moore bought 35 head of hogs last week at $1 cents. N. M. Town Advance.

Reports from the fruit growing sections of New York say that in the main trees and vines wintered well, and that for the most part the recent cold weather damaged only the peach crop.

Sales of lots of lambs at three dollars and a half per head. Gunned off at from 70 to 80 pounds. Hedd & Bro. are buying stock hogs at $4.50 per hundred. A good demand for horses and mules for farming purposes, and good saddlers in active demand at from $25 to $200. Hedd & Bro. bought of George Pew of Scott, fourteen head of butcher cattle, at 4 cents. Mr. Robert Prewitt, near Athens, sold to Ed Browning, Jr., of Pinegrove a farm of one hundred and seven acres at $70 per acre. It is good land and in a good neighborhood. Lexington Gazette.

A Wrong Impression.

The news that the Prince of Wales appeared recently in evening dress in a coat which was the color of claret, says the New York Sun, has had a remarkable effect upon the large contingent of men to whom the vicarages of fashion are of absorbing moment. The theory that the Prince of Wales is the leader of fashion in England, prevails only in America. He is a short, pudgy, little man, with nothing attractive in figure, and he is exceedingly conservative in his attire at all times. None of the oddities of fashion which occasionally gain a momentary vogue over the London swells, is followed by the Prince of Wales. If he has any influence at all it is of a conservative and restrictive nature. The men who lead the fashion are very well known to the London tailors, who bid eagerly for the privilege of dressing them. There are a dozen or more of these dandies in the Guards Club, and they are mostly military officers of rank, though not, as a rule, men of title. Each one has a certain influence in the other clubs, and the band of well-dressed men who may be seen any day going along Pall Mall from one club to another so closely resemble their leader that any one of them could pose as a model for the tailor. A London authority in these matters compiled a list once in the Referee, which is distinctively a sporting paper, read by "gentlemen and gentlemen" on Sunday mornings, of the men whose influence practically guided the London world of fashion. There are upwards of ninety names on that list. These men, who dress precisely alike, have undoubtedly given the keynote to the tailor. About the time light frock coats and hats achieved great prominence among sporting personages the entire racing contingent of swells from the London clubs turned up on the first day of Ascot dressed in black frock coats, black hats and dark trousers. Their attire was precisely similar to that of the regulation dress of the loungers in Hyde Park in the afternoon. All the outsiders were racing clothes of the latest pattern. This one display of somber stuff by the actual leaders, however, killed the fashion of light frock coats for all time. It is said that the Prince of Wales wore a suit colored frock suit that day, the swells having failed to notify him of their sudden change of front. This would seem to dispose of the idea that the Prince of Wales leads the fashion in Great Britain.

Beo Keeping For Farmers.

Every farmer ought to secure a few hives of bees and increase them as much as possible. They are laborers for who no wages are required, and they board themselves with occasional assistance from their owner when he has drawn too freely from their stores. Each swarm should be doubled every year, and a few stands taken care of quickly develop into a large colony. The chief danger is from the moth, but watchfulness will enable the bees to keep clear of this pest. If you are afraid of stings get some colonies of Italian, as they are less likely to be touchy. But if treated well, bees never sting. They can not afford to do so, as in most cases the stinger is left in the flesh and is therefore broken off from the bee's body, making its death certain.

HORSE AND TRACE.

C. W. Williams is jogging Alton, 2:09, at eight of his get.

Marcus Dally has nearly $1,000,000 invested in trotters and thoroughbreds.

Margaret S., 2:12, is being educated to pace and bid fair to go fast at that gallop.

The yearling brother of Costanza, 2:08, and Coast Boy, 2:14, is a natural trotter.

Hal Pointer, 2:04, will be given a chance to bring his 2:30 winning heat up to 100. He now has 98.

Joe Conroy is absolutely making the best harness ever put up in this section. Buy them.

Mouselin Perdran, of France, is in Kentucky looking for some well-bred ones to take across the ocean.

C. J. Hamlin breeds many fillies at two years old, and has brood mares seven years old that are grandmothers.

There is a two-year-old filly by Dexter Prince, dam a sister of Saladin, 2:03, in California that can pace a 2:30 gallop.

Pansy McGregor, in her yearling form, won eleven heats in better than 2:50, eight better than 2:40 and five better than 2:30.

Manager, 2:06, is pronounced in better shape than ever before so early in the year and likely to still further reduce his record.

Starlight, 2:16, by Electioneer, out of Sally Boston, 2:18, will be bred to the thoroughbred imported stallion Meddler this spring.

Mr. Forbes has not yet determined what course he will pursue with Arlon this season. He says he is in great form and can show a 2:00 clip.

A few days ago an experienced trainer stated that he had yet to find a colt broken to lead that proved halcyon when put in harness.—Sportsman.

John Goldsmith will campaign Hazel Wilkes, 2:11, the daughter of Guy Wilkes, that Walter Hobart bought at the San Mateo sale for $500.

There is no demand for brood mares at the present time. It will pay a man better to keep them until they wean their foals and shape them up for road work.

H. D. Van Wight, of Poughkeepsie N. Y., has bought of C. C. Harris, of Lexington, Ky., and Willie Dunn, of Danville, Ky., a pair of fine geldings for $1,800.

R. Carey, Potsdam, N. Y., has sold to M. Dwyer, Buffalo, N. Y., the trotting stallion Ryewood 2:16 by Bellewood, dam Lucy Plumb by Hydely, for $4,000.

James B. Green has decided to start Saladin, 2:03, in the Kentucky racing season on the Grand Circuit this year. Green will also campaign Linkwood Patchen 2:12 and others.

Mr. B. J. Tracy has leased for the season of 1894 from Mr. A. B. Bowman, assignee of Miss Nannie Smith, the station, May King, 2:21, by Electioneer, dam May Queen, 2:30, by Norman 25.

As soon as time improve the foreign market for trotters will get stronger. The Europeans are willing to buy, but they want first-class goods, and it is anything do not care to pay as much as the American purchaser.

Captain Griffiths, the owner of Flying Jib, 2:04, has just purchased a sister to Monroe Salisbury's fast horse Don Lowell, 2:03. Like Flying Jib and White Cap, this latest addition to Captain Griffiths' stable will carry a marine name, as she has been christened Scud.
